Theatresports Cranston Cup Semi Finals

Comedy

When: 16, 23, 30 October 8 pm Semis: 16/10, 23/10 Repechage: 30/10 Note: no show 9 /10/05

Information: Like a fine Barossa wine or a King Island brie, this contest is getting better with age as Sydney's crème de la crème of comic improvisers put their wit and courage to the test to win the Theatresports® Cranston Cup. For ten weeks, ten teams will battle it out at their new home, The Seymour Centre, attempting to reach the Grand Final and get their hands on the classiest and biggest trophy in Australia.

A Sydney comedy institution, the Cranston Cup season is the company's flagship - an annual cut-throat competition between teams of comic actors. Set the task of creating instant theatrical scenes, poems, songs and even operas with absolutely no preparation time, every show is 'on the edge' and the rivalry is fierce.

This year's teams are stacked with talent like every other year. Andrew Denton, Wil Anderson, Gary Eck, Gabby Millgate, Gia Carides, Jay Laga'aia, Ewan Campbell, Julia Zemiro, Bec DeUnamuno, Robin Butler, James O'Loughlin and Bianca Dye are just some of the personalities who have cut their comic teeth competing in Theatresports® in the past. One team this year sees Deal Or No Deal's Andrew O'Keefe, ABC Radio and TV star Adam Spencer and Comedian actor Rob Carlton combine as a Tour De Force - throwing down the gauntlet to all challengers.

Sign up for the newsletter and on Monday 10th it will contain a special word that will entitle you to a two for 1 ticket offer. This offer is only open to What's on Sydney readers.
